

BEZEL LID

Step on strength and a lower cost

Powder coated aluminum Bezel lid and leading edge. Front edge (leading) stops in front of the Bezel lid. Pools lowered beam is exposed.

VANISHING LID (Possible poured concrete in trays or pavers in trays or on brackets)

Middle price range

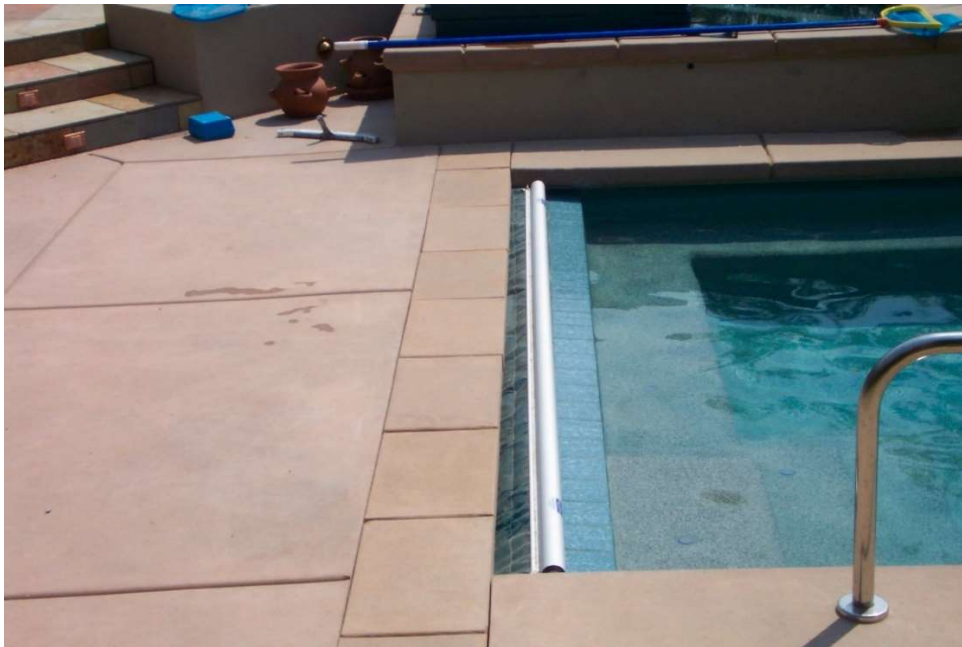

May be designed with or without trays under the pool cover lids paver

Conceals pool cover housing top opening only, pool lowered beam is visible.

Preferred application 1 stone sharing 2 brackets. Either aluminum or stainless-steel designs (price varies)

Above example: BRACKETS ONLY WITH ADHESIVE PLATES (Stones rest on and secure to the bracket adhesive plate)

Above example: poured concrete into trays.

Lowered beam exposed and front edge of pool cover is visible when retracted.

EXTENDED VANISHING LID (Possible poured concrete in trays or pavers in trays or on brackets)

Most expensive option Arizona Pool Covers Exclusive

Front edge of pool cover retracts under the extended vanishing lid. Majority of pools tiled lowerd beam is concealed. May be designed with or without trays under pavers. Requires specific clearances when preparing the poolsite. Preferred application is 1 stone per lid tray.

Not fully retracted

Fully retracted